

Pi-tastic Day

Students across Nailsea School were invited by the Maths department to celebrate Pi day this week. The day which is celebrated around the globe was established in America in 1988. March 14th was chosen because of its significance in relation to the number of Pi - 3.14.

A number of challenges were set around the school including 'Guess the Pi' – a catchphrase game where illustrations represent a commonly used term – eg. Pumpkin Pie. Pictures of the 'dingbats' were dotted around the school for students to take part in a Pi treasure trail.

A competition was also held at lunchtime with students being challenged to remember the most digits of Pi, competitors were awarded for their efforts with a delicious pie!

A quiz was also available for students to take part in – with more pies for prizes!

Maths Teacher Mrs Plaw who helped organized the day said

"Pi day is a great excuse to celebrate maths. This year it has been bigger and better than ever! It's been so lovely to see so many students enjoying themselves doing the various Pi activities".

The finale of the day included an after school Masterclass in Pi for some of the schools More Able and Talented students across the years from 7 to 9
