

English Language

Task 1

Listen to three of the six podcasts below and make notes on the following:

1. What their view on the language topic is
  2. Who they are
  3. What your personal opinion is about the topic
- BBC Radio 4 - Word of Mouth, Jeffrey Boakye on black-related words
  - BBC Radio 4 - Word of Mouth, Young Women as Linguistic Innovators
  - BBC Radio 4 - Word of Mouth, Social Register
  - BBC Radio 4 - Word of Mouth, Slang
  - BBC Radio 4 - Word of Mouth, Language Evolution: A Gene for Language?
  - BBC Radio 4 - Word of Mouth, Emoji: The Future of Language?

Task 2

Read to two of the four articles below and make notes on the following (you may need to register with The Guardian's website but it's free):

1. What their view on the language topic is
  2. Who they are
  3. What your personal opinion is about the topic
- It's bare sick that the OED cares how young people speak | Coco Khan | The Guardian
  - Resistance to changes in grammar is futile, say researchers | Language | The Guardian
  - Is language like fashion, or the weather? | David Shariatmadari | The Guardian
  - ICYMI, English language is changing faster than ever, says expert | Language | The Guardian

Task 3

Read three research articles from this link (scroll to see articles) and make notes on the following:

1. What their view on the language topic is
  2. Who they are
  3. What your personal opinion is about the topic
- Linguistics Research Digest: Language Change \(linguistics-research-digest.blogspot.com\)

Task 4

Create your own opinion article where you express your views about whether language change is positive and natural or is instead ruining the language.

Your article should include:

- your opinion on the topic
- knowledge from what you've watched and read – make it clear where you've gotten this knowledge from
- examples of how language has changed (either from what you've watched/read or your own examples)

Make sure your article is written in the correct style of an opinion article.
