

Health and Social Care

Task 1

Health education aims to promote awareness of health issues to prioritise the health of the population.

Carry out research to identify the purpose of health education. You could include information from the following headings:

- Reduce the cause and incidence of ill health
- Control the occurrence of infectious disease
- Promote against environmental hazards
- Promote equity for the nation
- Develop an understanding of health risks and risk-taking behaviour

You can present this how you wish (written notes, mind map etc).

Task 2

There are many organisations (global, national and local) that influence health education. Carry out research into the following three organisations, using the bullet points below to prompt you: World Health Organisation (WHO), NHS England, Department for Health and Social Care.

- Background information into the organisation – what is their purpose, their role in health education, how they operate
- How do they collect data to identify areas for intervention?
- How do they monitor patterns and trends in health?
- How do they use this information to improve health?

Present this how you wish on 1 side of A4 (written notes, mind map, written report etc)

Task 3

There are many health education campaigns running across England to improve the health of the nation. Choose one health campaign to research. This should link to a health priority, such as: Smoking (NHS Quit Smoking), Diet and Nutrition (NHS Eat Well), Better Start in Life (NHS Start for Life).

Research the following bullet points to include in your information:

- Overview of the health campaign – what does it involve?
- Research the health issue – can you find any data for the local area to suggest that it needs to be a health priority?
- Can you find any information about how successful this campaign has been? Can you find any information for the local area?

Transition Task

Present this information as one A4 poster.
